The Construction Management Program at Michigan State University has developed a Michigan commercial energy code training targeted to Building Officials, Inspectors, Engineers, Architects, Contractors, Subcontractors and Suppliers. The four hour seminars address compliance with the Michigan Energy Code for Commercial Buildings. The training is based on ASHRAE 90.1 (1999), but also includes discussion of some of the changes in the ASHRAE 90.1 (2004). The program includes presentations of envelop, lighting and HVAC requirements, as well as compliance forms and ComCheck EZ compliance software.

As part of attendance, all attendees will receive training materials and a useful CD Rom at no cost. The CD contains all presentations and numerous links to a variety of energy code information.
